

Frequently Asked Questions on The Driver Theory Test and COVID-19

Q. Is the Driver Theory Test service operating as normal?

A. The Driver Theory Test Service is suspended until 19 April due to COVID-19. The suspension takes effect as and from today Wednesday 25 March and will be subject to ongoing review.

Q. I have a theory test scheduled before 19th April what do I do?

Candidates who have a driver theory test scheduled up to 19 April, will be contacted to notify them that their test will be rescheduled free of charge when the service resumes. Updates around the re-starting of tests will be published on www.theorytest.ie

Q. Will emergency theory tests be carried out?

A. Prometric has advised that it will continue to provide a service in emergency cases and arrangements for this will be published on their website www.theorytest.ie by Wednesday afternoon 25 March.

Check here for more information.