

Ashling Cunningham

Ashling Cunningham is an experienced Chief Information Officer at Ervia and has extensive experience working in manufacturing, services and utilities industries.

Ashling has an IT and Finance background and she holds an M.Sc. in Management from Trinity College. Before joining Ervia Ashling held several senior leadership and consulting positions in international companies.

A regular speaker at seminars, conference and industry events on the transformational role of digital and technology, data and security, innovation and women in business, she is a frequent contributor to trade publications.