Essential Driver Training (EDT)

EDT Programme

The 12 driving lessons in the EDT programme will give you vital skills as you develop your driving ability and work to become a competent driver. You will become a competent driver by taking the EDT programme together with any further driving instruction as agreed with your Approved Driving Instructor (ADI) and plenty of practice with your Sponsor. EDT will help deliver some of the most vital driving skills as well as improving your knowledge and understanding of road safety. The course consists of 12 one hour lessons and outline lesson plans have been created for each of those lessons to help your ADI deliver the training.

Each EDT lesson has expected outcomes which will help to track your progress. You will only achieve the expected outcomes if you work closely with your ADI and practise with your Sponsor.

Your Logbook

This Logbook is an important document which you should keep safely and take along to each driving lesson. Your ADI will sign off on your lessons by stamping the relevant sections for each individual lesson in the Certificate Pages. ADIs can only log their own lessons and may not under any circumstances record training provided by another ADI. Your Logbook is a record of your training and progress so take care to get it updated at the end of each lesson.

If you want to change ADI, you can do this as long as the ADI is approved. You can find this out by checking the official register under the Find an Instructor tab on the www.rsa.ie website.

Lost or destroyed Logbooks

If you lose your Logbook, you will need to get a replacement. Its loss or destruction must be reported to your local Gardaí. You will then need to buy a duplicate from your ADI. You can check the price of a replacement Logbook on the RSA website at www.rsa.ie
Cost of EDT

The RSA does not set the charges for EDT lessons. It is down to individual ADIs to set the fees for their services. However if you ring around and ask several ADIs what they are charging before you start your lessons, you should have a good idea whether or not you are getting good value for your money. Remember, the cheapest option is not always the best option and a strong recommendation from a friend or family member may prove to be the best option in the long run.

If you have any concerns about your EDT lessons, speak to your ADI or contact the ADI Unit of the Road Safety Authority by emailing adi@rsa.ie

Data sharing

Please note that EDT records will be made available to the Road Safety Authority to enable it to monitor compliance with the requirements of EDT. This will include your name, driver number and details of EDT lessons completed. The RSA is subject to the Data Protection Acts and manages data in accordance with the legislation.

Sponsor

A Sponsor is someone who helps and supports you, the learner driver, as you improve your driving skills by being an accompanying driver during practice drives. To get the best from the lessons you take, you must practise, practise, practise and the best person to do this with is a Sponsor. This is a responsible role so you should choose someone that you feel comfortable with. This might be a family member such as a parent, aunt or uncle. The Sponsor must be able to give time and effort to teaching you to drive without any financial reward. Sponsors must hold a full car driving licence for at least two years but more importantly should have lots of driving experience so that you can benefit from this experience.

After each lesson, check with your ADI about what you should be practising with your Sponsor. Your ADI may wish to talk with your Sponsor from time to time or may ask you to share your Logbook with them so they can get a feel for how your driving is progressing.
Self Analysis

Research shows that it is important for learners to think about their own learning and progress. One very effective way to do this is to continually evaluate your own performance so that you can identify your strengths and weaknesses. Once you have done this, you can then use that important information to help you build your knowledge and skills to improve your driving performance.

You can do self analysis by asking questions such as:

- How did I do during the lesson?
- Why did I do some particular aspect of driving well?
- Why did I not do something well?
- Was I properly prepared for the lesson?
- How can I be better prepared in future?

You should do this when you are in a relaxed environment and able to reflect on your lesson. This should ideally happen as soon as possible after your last lesson whilst things are still fresh in your mind. You can record your thoughts in the Logbook.

As you go through your lessons, review your previous self analysis to see if there are any common issues arising. If so, deal with them to make sure they are not becoming a barrier to getting the best from your lessons. Identify also the positive factors that help you learn better.

You are encouraged to share your self analysis with your ADI and your Sponsor to aid your learning. Your ADI or Sponsor may have some guidance tips to help you to complete the self analysis.
The following checks must be carried out before each EDT lesson. Both learner and ADI must confirm that the checks have been completed before the lesson, and sign the Declaration in the relevant column below.

SELF ANALYSIS – LESSON 1

In analysing your performance on EDT Lesson 1, please think about the following questions. What were the expected outcomes for this lesson? Did I meet those outcomes? Do I understand the theory behind the topics covered? What did I do well? Why did I do it well? What did I not do so well? What do I think caused me not to perform those pieces so well? Was I properly prepared for the lesson? How can I be better prepared in future?

To get the best out of your self analysis, you should complete it as soon as possible after the lesson while it is fresh in your mind. This is an exercise for your own use but your ADI may wish to discuss your self analysis with you before your next lesson and you should find that a short discussion with your ADI or Sponsor will often be helpful. The main thing to remember is to take the time to carefully consider your own performance.

SELF ANALYSIS – LESSON 8

In analysing your performance on EDT Lesson 8, please think about the following questions. What were the expected outcomes for this lesson? Did I meet those outcomes? Do I understand the theory behind the topics covered? What did I do well? Why did I do it well? What did I not do so well? What do I think caused me not to perform those pieces so well? Was I properly prepared for the lesson? How can I be better prepared in future?

To get the best out of your self analysis, you should complete it as soon as possible after the lesson while it is fresh in your mind. This is an exercise for your own use but your ADI may wish to discuss your self analysis with you before your next lesson and you should find that a short discussion with your ADI or Sponsor will often be helpful. The main thing to remember is to take the time to carefully consider your own performance.

Sponsors should use this section to record the dates and times of when practice sessions are taken and which topics were practised. Be guided by your learner’s ADI who will have noted details of the EDT lessons taken and may have included details of what needs to be practised further, what the learner needs to read up on or have covered before the next EDT lesson. Sponsors may also use this section to leave comments for the learner or ADI as appropriate. By keeping in touch with the learner and the ADI, a Sponsor will be able to help reinforce, for the learner, the learning that has taken place during both EDT and other driving lessons.

Notes:
This confirms the completion of EDT Lesson 9 relating to Changing Direction (More Complex Situations). The minimum content for the lesson has been delivered and in the Feedback section below I have described the learner’s progress towards meeting the expected outcomes. The objectives and expected outcomes for this lesson are described in the EDT Syllabus which is available in the Essential Driver Training Learner Information Booklet and online at www.rsa.ie
